

ANTIQUES (CURIO) QUIZ

An ideal activity prior to dinner, perhaps over drinks – up to 25 antique artefacts/curios will be displayed on a large table for the group to identify the purpose, origin and value of each of the items. The purpose is far from obvious – but these objects will all have been household or commonly used items at some time in the past.

Guests are invited to examine each object over drinks and collectively give an explanation as to the origin and purpose of each item. Where there is “no idea!” the host John Hargreaves will elicit pertinent information by asking leading questions – until with the right answers are deduced. Points can be awarded depending on how much help is needed to get to the “Eureka” moment!

The antique curio objects always generate plenty of interest, dialogue and debate amongst guests with the whole event hosted in an engaging and humorous way by our very own John Hargreaves Esq.

This is a light-hearted but genuinely educational event with plenty of “I never knew that!” comments along the way... participants cannot fail to enjoy the process of deciphering the background and purpose of the items.
